AND NOWHERE TO GO—More than 40 distraught youth, along with their parents, confronted Waveland's mayor and aldermen at a meeting Monday night, voicing complaints against the city's police. The confrontation centered around allegations that law enforcement officers are engaging in undue harassment in attempting to stop local teenagers from congregating in the Choctaw Plaza parking lot on Friday and Saturday nights. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

Teens, parents confront Waveland officials

BY D.C. HARVILL

More than 40 apparently distraught teenagers and their parents confronted Waveland's board of aldermen Monday night with complaints that the city's police are unduly harassing the teens when they congregate in the parking lot of Choctaw Plaza.

Several parents were almost arrested Saturday night when police tried to make the teens leave the lot. They have organized into a committee to solve the problem, claiming the teens are causing no harm and that police have been harassing them by forcing them to leave the lot and other places they have tried to gather.

"Why are you trying to drive our kids out of Waveland?" asked Jimmy LaFontaine.

The board said they are not trying to drive the teens out of Waveland, but the parking lot is private property and it is the police department's job to make them leave if complaints are received from the owners.

"They haven't filed any complaints, we've talked to all the people in the shopping center and none of them say they don't want them there," LaFontaine said.

Alderman Stella Frilot informed the group that the shop owners do not own the shopping center, they just rent space.

A representative of Delchamps, who wished to remain anonymous, said the teens cause a "bit of a litter problem" but declined further comment other than that they didn't want to get involved.

Mary Tarver, a manager of McDonald's Restaurant, whose property adjoins the lot near where the teens gather said Monday morning, "They never bother us. We have our own security person at the store so if they caused trouble on our property the guard would have them leave. They provide our business on Friday and Saturday nights," she added.

"There must have been five police cars over there the other night and the kids wouldn't leave. I don't blame them," Tarver said.

"We have had complaints," Police Chief Donald Dorn said before the meeting. "If the owner's don't want them there it is our job to keep them out."

R.L. Greer, a spokesman for Parkmore Management, the Pennsylvania-based company that owns the shopping center said in a telephone interview, "We are not in favor of congregating and drinking in the parking lots of any of our centers. The parking area of our shopping centers are for the benefit and convenience of our customers.

"Based on reports that that is occurring (at Choctaw Plaza) we have written a letter to Waveland Police authorizing them to remove them from our parking area," Greer added.

Courregge pleads innocent

Bert Courregge, former Hancock County Beat One supervisor, has entered a plea of innocent in connection with an "Operation Pretense" charge.

Courregge was arraigned Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Biloxi before U.S. Magistrate John Roper.

The former supervisor has been charged with mail fraud in a federal bill of information issued Aug. 8 by the U.S. Attorney's Office.

He is accused of accepting a $40 kickback from Davis Chemical Company of Hattiesburg in connection with purchase of weed killer.

Courregge, who served three terms as supervisor prior to losing last year's election, is the fourth Hancock County supervisor netted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation's "Operation Pretense."

The other three either entered guilty pleas or changed their pleas to guilty and are awaiting sentencing. They include Sam Pernicaro of Beat Four, Roger Dale Ladner of Beat Three and James Travirca of Beat Five.

Courregge was released on a $1,000 personal recognizance bond after the arraignment hearing.

Sand tests encouraging according to Corp

BY D.C. HARVILL

The results of samples taken from the bottom of Mississippi Sound in the Corp of Engineers search for sand to replenish Hancock County's beach are encouraging, but more tests are needed before they can be sure.

The results from the samples taken off Hancock County's coast in July indicate a supply of sand adequate for rebuilding the beach, according to Bob Martin, study manager for the Corp.

"There is sufficient sand out there, but most of it is covered by a layer of mud six to 12 feet deep," Sand Beach Advisement Committee Chairman John Scafide said. "There is a stretch down near Bayou Cadet, though, that is under only two feet," he added.

"The results show that in the area we tested there is sand but the larger part of the area is overlayed with several feet of fine material," Martin said.

Martin added, to be sure there is enough sand to economically pump in a new beach, electronic test will be conducted in September.

County engineer said, thinks there is enough sand there, but isn't sure the quality is suitable for a beach.

WOMAN INJURED—Two vehicles wait to be separated after a three-car accident Wednesday afternoon that critically injured the driver of a third vehicle, Mary Catherine Stephens, 52, of Pascagoula. David Sellier of Bay St. Louis Police Department, who is in charge of the investigation, said charges are pending against Marlon K. Jackson, 35, of Bay St. Louis. A third driver, Walter Heffron of Pearlington, whose car is shown here with Jackson's, was not injured. (Echo photo by Tony Monti)

Soil borings show possible landfill site

BY DENA BISNETTE

The State Department of Geology is continuing its soil borings to determine if Hancock County has a site that can meet current federal and state specifications for a sanitary landfill.

One of the sites, according to Hancock County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson, "really looks promising."

Hancock County is faced with the problem of a rapidly filling landfill at Catahoula. The landfill, part of the Stennis Space Center buffer zone, is leased to the county and must close by Nov. 30.

The Nov. 30 deadline includes a 60-day extension obtained from NASA with the stipulation that the county continue pursuing a new site.

Interim Beat Three Supervisor Bill Whitfield said the "promising site" is one of two boring locations on the Kiln-Picayune Road.

"They found 40 feet of clay," Whitfield explained. The clay is necessary to provide a natural seal for a landfill to keep the dangerous chemicals formed during the decay of buried garbage from leaching into groundwater supplies.

Reports are not yet available regarding the second site and another boring on 16th section land off Firetower Road, Johnson said.

Although borings are continuing, the board has authorized

David Taylor to start working on a permit application using the preliminary information from the first site. Taylor, a member of the Gulf Regional Planning Commission staff, has been helping the board with the landfill problem.

At a prior meeting, the board agreed to take bids on a contract for collection of household garbage from dumpsters to be placed at several locations in the county.

According to Board President Ronald Cuevas, the contract would be an interim measure during the time it would take to permit and open a new landfill if one of the boring sites is acceptable.

The contractor would have the responsibility of waste disposal.

Wreck sends woman to emergency surgery

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Pascagoula woman underwent emergency surgery at Hancock Medical Center Wednesday afternoon after being injured in a three-car wreck on US-90.

The wreck, which happened shortly before 1 p.m. near the A-1 Home Center, injured Mary Catherine Stephens, 52.

David Sellier of Bay St. Louis Police Department, who is in charge of investigation of the accident, said a doctor stated to him that the woman was in critical condition when surgery began and that she was "too unstable to be moved" to a hospital nearer to Pascagoula.

Charges are pending against one of the other drivers involved, Marlon Kevin Jackson, 35, of Bay St. Louis, Sellier stated. Jackson was also injured and was treated and released from Hancock Medical Center.

According to Sellier, Stephens and Jackson were both traveling east when Jackson's vehicle hit hers from the rear.

Both vehicles crossed the median into the westbound lane, where Jackson's vehicle collided head-on with Heffron's, the police officer added.

He said Waveland Police Department provided assistance with traffic control, keeping one lane of the westbound highway open.

Also assisting at the scene were Bay St. Louis Fire Department, Mobile Medic Ambulance

Suspected a/c thieves arrested at Diamondhead

BY D.C. HARVILL

Two Louisiana men have been arrested in connection with the Friday morning theft of a central air-conditioning unit from the Faith Assembly of God Church on Highway 43 in Kiln.

Earl S. Beale, 32, of Lafitte, La. and Adam J. Rowbotham, 31, of Algiers, La. were arrested for public drunk about 3: Tuesday morning at a Diamondhead Hotel by sheriff's officer Willie Lee and Investigator Nathan Hoda.

After further investigation it was determined the two were subjects being sought for theft of the air-conditioner, Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said.

After sheriff's personnel spotted a car at a lounge on Kilm Delisle Road, matching a description given by a witness to the theft, the suspects evaded arrest by fleeing into a wooded area.

The officers found the air-conditioner in the trunk of the car and returned it to the church. The car was confiscated.

Both suspects are incarcerated at Hancock County Jail on $10,000 bonds.

Other arrest in the case are pending, Peterson said.

"QUOTEABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The annual Muscular Dystrophy Labor Day Telethon will again be sponsored by the Waveland Civic Association.

Louis Smolensky, coordinator, reports the telethon will begin at 6 p.m. on Sunday and run through 5 p.m. Monday.

The local drive will coincide with the national Muscular Dystrophy telethon, which will be televised on New Orleans channels 26 and 9.

The headquarters for the telethon will be the Waveland City Hall and will cover Hancock and West Harrison counties.

Pledges may be made during the telethon by calling 467-4134, 467-9248 or 467-9249.

If you wish, you may stop by Waveland City Hall to see Louis and his crew at work, or even make a few telephone calls seeking pledges.

Muscular Dystrophy's local goal is $12,000 and this year the recently re-organized Bay-Waveland Jaycees are scheduled to participate in the drive.

We hope everyone will be generous.

Although it is a little early, I thought I would remind you about the annual fireworks spectacular scheduled for Sunday night at the Garfield Ladner Memorial Pier, Beach Boulevard, Waveland at 8:30 p.m.

The event is sponsored by the Waveland Civic Association in cooperation with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

The kick-off for area high school football is Friday night.

The Tigers, Rock-A-Chaws and Pirates will open at home while the Hawks will journey to Pearl River, La.

Bay High will open the season against arch rival Stone County in Tiger Stadium.

The young Tigers this season will be led by new head coach Bob Lumpkin, who was a two-year assistant to Cleveland Williams who retired from coaching at the end of last season.

Friday night will be a real test for the 1988 Bay High squad, as Stone County has been a conference leader for several years.

The Hawks of Hancock North Central will be trying to open their season with a victory over Pearl River, La.

Veteran head coach Irvin Favre seems to reach deep into the bag each year to replace previous year star graduates.

The Hawks had an impressive 7-2 season in 1987 and will be looking at bettering that record in 1988.

The Rock-A-Chaws of St. Stanislaus are hopeful to have a winning season with a squad containing 16 veterans from last year.

The Rocks will open the season by hosting Pope John Paul at Stanislaus stadium Friday night.

Head coach Ken Lyons will be out to improve the Rock-A-Chaws' 6-4 record of 1987 and will be depending on several members of last year's B-team to fill key positions.

Pass Christian's Pirates, with a new coach in 1988, will be looking for an improved record over 1987 when they open play against the St. John Eagles.

St. John has been playing very good football in recent years and the Pirates will really have to be sharp to keep a victory at home.

The Hawks, Rock-A-Chaws, Tigers and Pirates have all been working hard for the opening game of the season. The team members and coaches would like to see some very good home support for the kickoffs on Friday night.

Kickoffs are at 7:30 p.m. and we hope to see you at the games.

Changes are being made in many industries today, and railroads are no exception.

The caboose is almost a thing of the past with a little box replacing the people and vehicle.

In things we have read and heard, the box contains all types of equipment and keeps the people in the front of the train informed as to what is happening with the entire unit.

We noted a freight train at about 9 p.m. Tuesday night at the Beach Boulevard crossing and could see the box as it passed under the street lights, only the red flashing light was not operating.

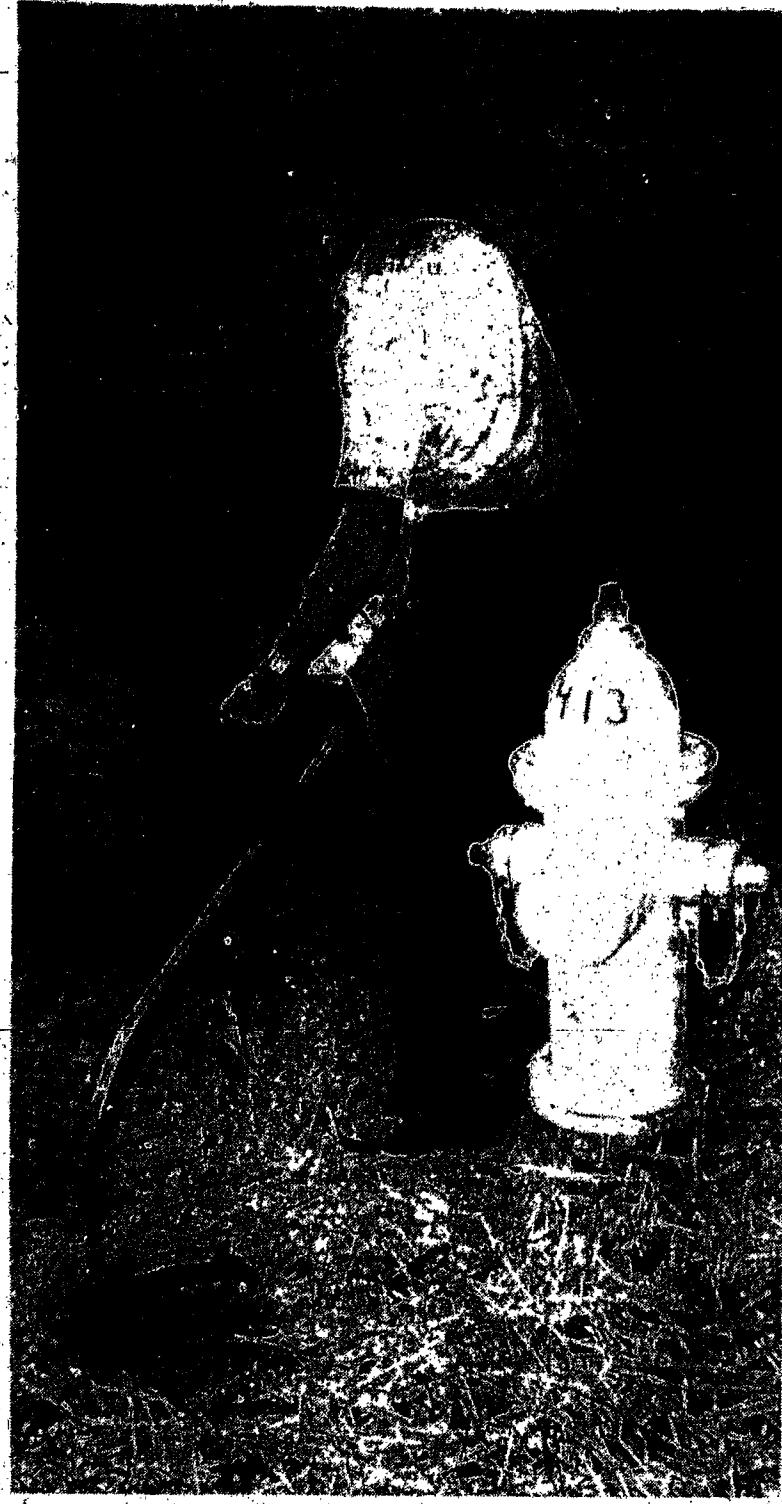

Anyway, the train probably didn't need the flashing light, as it appeared to be going too fast for another to catch it anyway.

Thought I would mention that I received a telephone call from W.J. Cameron, administrative principal of the Bay-Waveland School District reporting he is in need of regular and substitute bus drivers in addition to custodians.

If you think you may qualify, contact Cameron at the school district's central office.

FROM THE CAPITOL

By Governor Ray Mabus

This week I will be carrying

Mississippi's message abroad. With Mississippi Businessmen and representatives of the state Department of Economic Development, I hope to plant seeds that will grow into a trade partnership with the Far East—a very strategic region in the world economy.

My goal is to begin the process of creating active partnerships that ultimately will promote the trade and development of Mississippi products and industries.

The bottom line is more and better jobs for Mississippians.

The two countries we will be visiting—China and Japan—are very different. But both offer great potential for our state.

China has made some significant changes in recent years that will open it up economically. Because of its size and its huge potential for economic development, it is an opportune time to begin discussions with this country.

Of particular interest to the Chinese are the wood and paper products, fertilizer, poultry and catfish industries.

In addition to meeting important Chinese leaders, we will continue talks on establishing a sister state/province relationship between Mississippi and Hainan Island—China's newest province.

Then, beginning on Sept. 3, I will join Govs. Bill Clinton of Arkansas and Buddy Roemer of Louisiana in Japan to talk to business and government leaders there about the Mid-South Region.

As you may recall, we signed two tri-state agreements in May.

In one, we pledged to work together to improve the quality of life in the region; create better lines of communications with the private sector; enhance the image of the region, both domestically and abroad; and identify specific initiatives to solve common problems.

The second agreement called for our states to cooperatively promote friendly working relations with foreign countries in the areas of international trade, industry, technology and in commerce, culture and tourism.

Japan is important—not because it is a developing market like China—but because it is an established world power, economically.

Current international investment in the Mid-South region totals more than $20 billion, and much of that investment comes from Japan.

Our trip calls for three days of meetings in Tokyo and two days in Osaka. Among the individuals and groups we will be meeting are Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita; the Ministry of International Trade and Industry; Nambukai, an arm of the Japan-U.S. Business Council; the Osaka Chamber of Commerce; and an industry group called Keidanren.

In today's global economy, it is crucial that Mississippi business and government leaders establish ties with foreign nations if our state is to get its fair share of trade. And I am committed to doing everything possible to ensure that we get that fair share.

Representative J. P. Comprett of Bay St. Louis was among legislators from 15 Southern states attending the Southern Legislative Conference's 42nd annual meeting in Lexington, Aug. 20-25.

Presidential politics was a prime topic of conversation at the meeting, the first major gathering of Southern lawmakers following both Democratic and Republican conventions.

Speakers included vice presidential nominees Lloyd Densten and Dan Quayle.

Comprett said the conference gave state lawmakers from throughout the Southern region an opportunity to discuss matters of mutual concern and to exchange ideas on how to deal with these problems. The SLC meeting is the third largest convention of state elected officials in the country.

Strategies for managing, protecting Gulf resources studied at Stennis

To the Editor:

The oceans are in trouble. There's no doubt about it. Our shores are under attack. Hardly a day goes by without some new beach insult being reported in the news media. A littered beach is not pretty or healthy. However, on a positive note, I sense a heightened public awareness of the situation. This is encouraging because it makes us feel we are on the right track in launching the Gulf of Mexico Program—a federal, state, and local effort to deal with the problems of 'America's Sea.'

In recent years, our Gulf has begun to show signs of deteriorating environmental quality, which is serious in some cases. From a newly established office at the Stennis Space Center near Bay St. Louis, the Environmental Protection Agency, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, and the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and others, are beginning to develop and implement a comprehensive strategy for managing and protecting the resources of the Gulf.

In a very real sense, protection of the Gulf is a matter of economics. We can't afford to irreparably damage a body of water which annually yields more than 2.5 billion pounds of fish and shellfish and supports more than one-third of the nation's marine recreational fishing.

Other statistics are equally compelling. The Gulf is an area where one-sixth of the U.S. population lives, it produces 90 percent of our offshore oil and gas, and includes three of the top five commercial sea ports in the country.

Of equal economic value and greater human enjoyment is the Gulf's biological importance. We must show our concern for the Gulf's estuaries, wetlands, and barrier islands which provide habitat for large populations of wildlife, including 75 percent of the migratory waterfowl traversing the United States.

Coastal wetlands are a valuable part of the Gulf system. They provide spawning and nursery grounds for fish and shellfish, shoreline stabilization and protection, and filtration of pollutants from coastal waters. However, coastal development involving dredge and fill activities reduce or impact these wetlands, which diminishes their function and degrades the Gulf. Also, maintenance dredging of channels and harbors would resuspend any toxics in the water column of nearshore Gulf waters.

Most of us don't realize, I'm sure, that more than 66 percent of the area of the United States drains into the Gulf of Mexico. Nutrients, wastes, toxics, and soils are washed from Minneapolis to St. Louis, from Albuquerque to Brownsville, from Pittsburgh to New Orleans and eventually end up accumulating in the Gulf.

Being at the bottom of the pipeline, so to speak, contributes to one of the Gulf's biggest problems—nutrient over-enrichment. While the contribution of river-borne nutrients—nitrogen and phosphorus—is part of the Gulf's exceptionally high productivity, excess nutrients cause blooms of microscopic plant life that decompose and use up the supply of dissolved (available) oxygen. If dissolved oxygen levels become too low, kills of marine organisms will occur.

Oxygen depletion is an increasing concern for many Gulf estuaries—including Sarasota Bay, Tampa Bay, Pensacola Bay and Mobile Bay—as well as the open Gulf itself. The noxious blooms of 'red tide' organisms common along the Florida coast also may be stimulated by nutrient enrichment.

An estimated 2.2 million fish were killed in a recent red tide outbreak in Texas.

This sounds overwhelming, but it is my hope that all of us together—federal, state and local governments, public and private groups, industry, and the academic community—will work to save this most valuable resource. As I see it, we have no choice.

Comprett attends Southern Legislative Conference

Representative J. P. Comprett of Bay St. Louis was among legislators from 15 Southern states attending the Southern Legislative Conference's 42nd annual meeting in Lexington, Aug. 20-25.

Presidential politics was a prime topic of conversation at the meeting, the first major gathering of Southern lawmakers following both Democratic and Republican conventions.

Speakers included vice presidential nominees Lloyd Densten and Dan Quayle.

Comprett said the conference gave state lawmakers from throughout the Southern region an opportunity to discuss matters of mutual concern and to exchange ideas on how to deal with these problems. The SLC meeting is the third largest convention of state elected officials in the country.

Major topics this year included agriculture and rural development, tax initiatives by Southern states, accountability in education, transportation needs in the coming century, adolescent pregnancy, the role of telecommunications in economic development, hazardous waste management, and dealing with the AIDS problem.

Comprett, who represents House District 122 in Hancock County, is chairman of the House Committee on Local and Private Legislation and is a member of the national Committee on Suggested State Legislation of the Council of State Governments (CSG).

Mississippi had an important role in the meeting, which drew about 2,000 delegates, family members and guests.

State Representative Charlie Capps of Cleveland, Miss., presided over the meeting in his role as SLC chairman for the past year. The new chairman is Senator Douglas Henry Jr. of Tennessee.

Among the featured speakers were Mississippi Governor Ray Mabus and Mississippi Haley Barbour of the GOP National Committee.

The Farm Reform Act approved by the Mississippi legislature in 1987 received a special award during the meeting from the SLC Agriculture and Rural Development Committee.

The SLC, founded in 1947, is one of four regional legislative groups operating within The Council of State Governments, a national nonpartisan organization which serves all branches of state government. Legislators from 15 states and Puerto Rico participate in the SLC in efforts to foster and encourage intergovernmental cooperation in the South.

Humane Society asks county for shelter site

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has agreed to help the Hancock County Humane Society find a site for an animal shelter.

The county was recently notified by Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr. that the only animal shelter in the county will be taken over by Waveland Sept. 6. The shelter will continue to accept animals brought in by the county dog warden or county residents until Dec. 31 at the county's current contribution of $400 per month.

The shelter is, until Sept. 6, a tri-entity venture jointly supported and used by Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the county, but Longo has contended that Waveland pays a disproportionately high amount through unseen costs and that the shelter is too small to serve the needs of all three entities. It is located on property owned by Waveland.

Hancock County Board of Supervisors President Ronald Cuevas said that the county will contract with the Humane Society shelter for animal control.

Humane Society President Thyla Rogers and Susie Seal addressed the board Wednesday, telling the supervisors about plans for the shelter and fundraising efforts.

Rogers responded to a question from Cuevas by stating that "the Waveland shelter is unique" because in most counties, including Harrison, the Humane Society operates the local animal shelter on a contract basis with the county.

She asked for a site near the fairgrounds, explaining that the shelter needs to be located "as near US-90 and Highway 603 as possible" because the local veterinarian who volunteers their services will have to go there before and after office hours or during lunch hours.

Cuevas explained that all the county property at the fairgrounds has been allocated to a multi-purpose building for which the board is pursuing grant funds, Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1, recreational facilities and related parking.

The board did, however, tell Rogers they would look into several other locations and try to help the society secure at least two acres for the shelter.

Rogers showed the board members a copy of a floor plan for a building the national Humane Society has constructed and tested in other locations.

The building includes an animal receiving area, a temporary holding area, public reception room and office space, as well as mechanical equipment and storage rooms, staff restrooms and an observation section.

In addition, the shelter includes a euthanasia facility, a 23-run kennel with attached outdoor runs, a puppy and cat room and a food storage and preparation section.

Future plans include a public education room inside the building and several facilities outside, including a petting zoo, goldfish pond and aviary, Rogers said.

The shelter would employ a full-time day attendant, then a 24-hour attendant after a petting zoo is added.

Rogers said the building will be constructed with high walls to facilitate the addition of an upstairs apartment for the attendant, who would receive free rent as part of his pay.

"I have a dream here. This is going to be more than a shelter; it will be an area of enjoyment for everyone," she stated.

At present, she has pledges of donations for the concrete slab, concrete finishing work, concrete blocks and other building materials, air conditioning for part of the building, and damaged packages of pet food and cat litter from a local store.

In addition, the Bay-Waveland Garden Club has agreed to help landscape the grounds.

"I have all this donated and nowhere to put it," she told the supervisors.

Seal is serving as sponsor of the fund drive and Rogers said Pete Fountain will be invited to serve as chairman.

The 48-foot-by-80-foot building can be ready about Jan. 1 if a site is found and work begins, Rogers said.

The supervisor said the board at 9 a.m. Sept. 6 will have a community work day for the Labor Day holiday.

Wilkerison seeks Beat Four Hancock Supervisor slot

John Wilkerison of Bay St. Louis has announced he will be seeking the post of Hancock County supervisor of Beat Four.

He is 55 and married to the former Lucille Werling. They have three children, Mrs. Agnes Dalton, John E. Wilkerison, and Mrs. Elizabeth Burleson. They also have three grandchildren, Heather Wilkerison, T. J. and Patricia Burleson.

Wilkerison was educated in the New Orleans Public School System and is employed by Rocketdyne Corporation at Stennis Space Center. He is serving his first four-year term as City Councilman of Ward Four in the City of Bay St.

Wilkerison issued the following statement:

"After hours of consideration, I have decided to run for the nization until 1987.

"I point with pride to these civic, fraternal and church activities because they have helped me to appreciate the place where I live and have allowed me to give some of myself to my community. For three years I served the veterans' widows, and children of Hancock County as the Veterans' Service officer. I became aware of some of the needs of the community at that time.

"During the last three years I have served as councilman of Ward Four in the City of Bay St.

Louis. During this time we have worked to give you the very best streets, drainage, police and fire protection. I have always done what I thought was in the best interest of all the people of Bay St. Louis.

"If I am elected Supervisor of Beat Four, I promise to bring the same dedication to that position that I have shown in every position I have held in the past. I will do what is best for the majority of the people in my beat. I promise you I will dedicate myself to the people I serve and the job I hold."

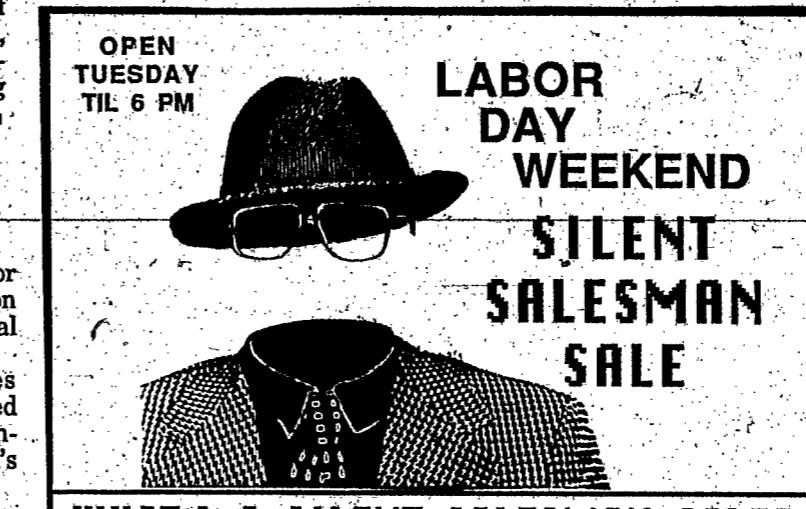

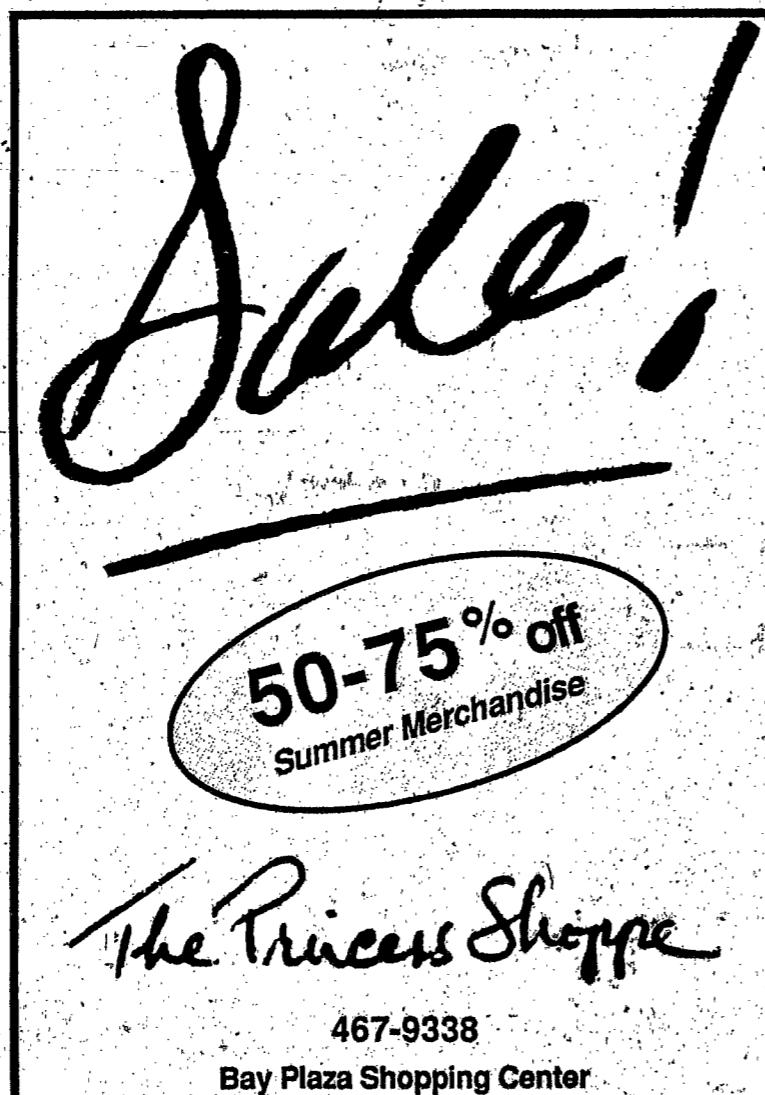

JOHN WILKERISON
position of Hancock County supervisor, Beat 4, in the special election.

"Thirty years ago we chose to move to Hancock County and make it our home. We have had the pleasure and privilege of seeing our children raised and educated here and now our grandchildren.

"I have been an active member of Clement R. Bontemps Post 139 of the American Legion for 30 years. Throughout that time I have held nearly every office in that organization including two terms as commander. I am currently a life member in the Legion and serving as adjutant.

"I was an active member of Our Lady Academy and Our Lady of the Gulf Parents Clubs when my children were in school and served as president of that group. I also was a member of OLG School Board. While my son was at St. Stanislaus, I worked with many of the brothers on school projects. I am also past president of the St. Stanislaus Band Booster Club and, even though my last child graduated in 1979, I remained an active member of that orga-

MEDICARE CATASTROPHIC COVERAGE ACT

Dear Medicare Eligible Taxpayer:

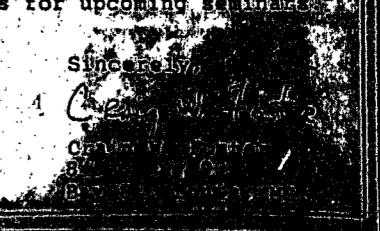

If you're eligible for Medicare and are paying federal income tax, your checks to Uncle Sam will be going up next year. Fortunately, there's something you can do about it this time.

President Reagan recently signed into law the Medicare Comprehensive Coverage Act of 1988, which is designed to protect older Americans and the disabled from financially devastating medical cost. A portion of the funds for this new coverage will be raised through a supplemental income tax surcharge applied to people who are eligible for Medicare Coverage.

If you are in this category, it may benefit you to move some of your savings dollars from taxable investments into certain tax-free investments that are not subject to the new income tax surcharge. Tax-free rates are very attractive right now, and many of my clients are finding that high-quality tax-free income investments meet their needs.

Another investment approach to reducing current taxable income is to shift savings to tax-deferred annuities. This allows earnings to accumulate without federal taxation until future years, when distributions are received.

For more information about the new law or your investment alternatives, please give me a call at 467-9400 so we can set up an appointment or make reservations for upcoming seminars.

Haas names Youth Court counselors, social workers

Youth Court Judge Michael D. Haas has appointed the following people to provide intake duties for the court:

For delinquency, child in need of supervision and related matters, Elson Cody, Department of Youth Service (DYS) counselor has been assigned to the court. In his absence, Brenda Baily, also a DYS counselor, is assigned.

Appointed in cases of neglect, abuse and related matters is Bridget Logan, Department of Public Welfare (DPW) social worker, and in her absence, Merri Lyne Fleming, also a DPW social worker.

For school attendance, educational neglect and related matters, Frank McNeil IV, school attendance counselor for Hancock County, and in his absence, Elson Cody, DYS counselor, will serve.

These intake officers are available during normal working hours, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at their offices.

Cody and McNeil are located at the Youth Court Center, 126 Court Street, Bay St. Louis, telephone 467-7945. Ms. Logan's office is in the Welfare Building, 405 Necessaire Ave., Bay St. Louis, telephone 467-4100 or 467-4565.

To report emergency situations on nights and weekends, telephone your local law enforcement agency. In all delinquency matters (those matters where a crime is involved) first call your local law enforcement agency. In addition, the Department of Public Welfare operates a toll-free telephone service for reporting abuse cases. The number is 1-800-222-8000.

There are some matters concerning children in which the Youth Court does not have jurisdiction, however, these intake officers can frequently direct you to the proper agency to obtain the help needed.

The Youth Court would also like to express its desire to cooperate with all individuals, civic organizations, schools and law enforcement agencies to help anyone concerned about children at risk.

Artificially chilled, kicked back and bombarded by technicolor incandescence, do we really know where we are?

It is a clear-skied night, not post-cold-front-clear; there are no cold fronts in August—not here. With no trouble, I pick out the Milky Way, so aptly named, spewn, not unlike raw grits, shining white and southerly—I am no iconoclast—across my eye's reach of sky. To the north is the Big Dipper swinging, both nightly and seasonally, along with the rest of the Northern Hemisphere's stars, from its sidereal peg, Polaris, the North Star.

Facing southeast, I can't help seeing Sirius, the brightest star, called also Dog Star and, with Waldo panting seriously against the back of my leg, I am reminded that this is a dog-day evening. Too late for Al Pacino, I suppose. Braced by recognition of the familiar, I am certain of where I am.

But, scanning the rest of the sky, where ancients imagined and unabashedly mapped so many constellations, my eyes fall on nothing so familiar as to evoke a name. Suddenly I am lost.

Do I lack sufficient imagination to pull points of light, strewn over unimaginable miles of space, into connect-the-dot images of mythical objects which only existed in the minds of men who lived thousands of years ago? Or am I ignorant? A simple multiple choice question. The kind preferred by students everywhere. Am I an imaginationless dipthong, or merely ignorant?

As much as I hate to, I plead ignorance. I've lived here, under this sky (the sky isn't the same everywhere), all my life. I even own star charts. Yet, I haven't taken the time to learn the constellations—at least!

Nor have I bothered to find my own connect-the-dot images—of creatures, real or imagined, which seems the more imaginative, personal approach to the sky.

When it comes to something as ever-present as the sky over our heads, I am on shaky ground; so how can I be sure of where I really am? By knowing where I am not, perhaps? But, how can I know I am not somewhere I've never been?

Dialectic conundrums not notwithstanding, there are gaping blank spaces on my map, so to speak. There are blank spaces on everyone's map, vast expanses of uncharted territory in our educations and experience.

Simple logistical reality dictates that our figurative maps will always contain uncharted regions; it is impossible to know everything, do everything, go everywhere, to experience everything Earth, in her generous proportions, has to offer.

Man confesses arson of own vehicle

BY D.C. HARVILL

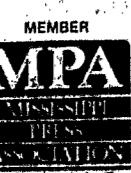

A resident of Route 2 is being held in Hancock County Jail on a $4,000 bond awaiting a preliminary hearing on charges with setting fire to his own vehicle.

Tommy Wayne Andrews was arrested on arson charges Sunday after reporting, about 10 a.m., that his truck had been stolen.

About 3 a.m. Sunday, officers were called to the scene of an overturned truck in the Bay-Side Park area, which had caught fire and ignited the surrounding woods. Fire Marshal Jay Marsh was called in to by the officers at the scene, Don Watson and Billy Pepperman.

Further investigation and interrogation led to a signed confession from Andrews stating that he had been drinking, and driving without a license, that he overturned the truck and then set it on fire, according to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

The case is still under investigation.

Bay Area Soccer registers tonight

Bay Area Youth Soccer (BAYS) will begin registration for the 1988-89 season tonight, Thursday, Sept. 1 at Waveland City Library on Coleman Avenue from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Registration will also be held at Christ Episcopal School in Virginia Hall next Tuesday, Sept. 6, from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Thursday, Sept. 8 children may register at North Bay Elementary Cafeteria from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Late registration will be Saturday, Sept. 10 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Waveland Little League Field. The registration fee is $25 which includes the cost of the uniform, state and district soccer fees, and sports patch for playing in the 1988-89 season and referee fees. All youth ages 5-18 are invited to participate.

Registration fees cover both the fall and spring seasons. By Mississippi Youth Soccer Association rules each player gets to play at least 50 percent of each game, regardless of skill. Proof of age will be needed for all youth not previously registered with BAYS.

Both boys and girls are encouraged to register. Applications are also being accepted from anyone interested in learning to referee or to coach soccer.

Hancock adult education registration scheduled

Hancock County Adult Education registration is slated to begin the week of Sept. 12 at the following locations:

Hancock North Central High School, Kiln, classes are on Mondays and Thursdays; Hancock City/County Library, 812 Hwy. 90, Bay St. Louis, classes are Mondays and Wednesdays; and Charles B. Murphy Elementary School, Pearlington, classes are Tuesdays and Thursdays. All classes at the above sites begin at 6 p.m.

This year we are delighted to inform the public of two day-

Man arrested

BY D.C. HARVILL

A Bay St. Louis man is in custody at the Hancock County Jail charged with possession of stolen property.

Ricky Smith, 33, was arrested Tuesday in Picayune. At this time the Hancock County Sheriff's office has recovered several vehicles, air-conditioners and numerous other items in connection with the case, said Chief Investigator Delbert Seay.

"At this time we are still in the field investigating and picking up stuff. It will be a few more days before we get it all together," Seay said.

Seay added that he thought additional charges in the case will be made in other counties.

Nathan Hoda is in charge of investigation.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

"One Last" was the overriding theme of the long Labor Day weekend in my growing-up days on the Gulf Coast—for that's about all my parents heard from me and from my three siblings, not to mention all our friends, as we feverishly raced through the days, intent upon one last sail on the Sound, one last bonfire on the beach, one last floundering or shrimp-ing or what have you expedition of fun before the school bells tolled for us and we four somewhat rebellious youngsters were herded "back to town" to our other home in New Orleans.

Of course, we returned from time to time over the winter, and looked forward eagerly to Easter weekend, which signaled the beginning of another blissful season for us.

And, we were not alone in this love for the Coast, or else how do you explain the fact that so many of us in later years—and many of the younger generations of Orleanians along with us—have made our homes permanently on the Coast?

The Labor Day feast was always lavish in our family, for we were evenly divided on the matter of seafood. My father, brother and I would happily devour almost anything that lived in the waters, while my mother, second brother and sister disliked seafood in varying degrees—so we feasted on both. And some people think that the 'surf and turf' combination is a new development of recent years? Not in the Daly clan!

There was always a huge pot of boiled crabs, along with potatoes and corn and whole onions cooked in the same spicy broth, and there were barbecued shrimp sharing honors with the barbecued ribs and chicken, and so on to the satiation point for all concerned.

Almost! What better way to finish than with watermelon, juicy and sweet to the ring, as the street sellers of other days used to chant as they hawked their wares?

Of course, we youngsters liked our watermelon 'as is'—sprinkled perhaps with salt, and eaten in large slices or wedges, with an eye to the watermelon battle afterward, fitting finale to summer's fun.

My father preferred his as 'Watermelon With a Walllop'—with a 'plug' cut in the melon, then rum or bourbon poured into the hole or space thus created, and eaten after several hours of chilling and—even our 'teetotaler' mother enjoyed it, although I'm not sure that Dad ever told her the secret of that special flavor!

And, of course, Mary, the family cook, insisted that we gather up the watermelon rinds, which she also insisted on taking "back to town" with us, so that she could make her famed pickled watermelon rind. When we complained of this chore, she would remind us how glad we would be in the chill and rain of winter to have what she called "a bit of our Coast sunshine" to cheer us. She was so right, and I still follow her example today.

So here's:

PICKLED WATERMELON RIND
Rind from one large watermelon
Salt
2 quarts cider vinegar
4 lbx. (9 cups) sugar
2 Tbsp. each whole cloves and allspice
1 piece fresh or dried gingerroot
2 cinnamon sticks (2 inches)
1 lemon, sliced thin

Trim off the green skin and pink meat (if there's any left) from the rind, and cut the rinds into rather small oblongs or into one-inch squares, enough to make four quarts.

Cover with cold salted water (1/2 cup salt) to each two quarts of water, and let stand overnight.

Next day drain well, and put in kettle or other heavy pot, and cover with fresh (cold) water. Bring to a boil and simmer until tender. Drain in a colander. Mix vinegar, 2 cups of water and the sugar. Tie the spices in a cheesecloth bag and add to the kettle, then bring to a boil and continue boiling rapidly for five minutes.

Add the watermelon and lemon, bring to a boil and simmer, uncovered, for an hour, or until clear and unclouded. Take out the spice bag and pack the pickle into hot sterilized jars and seal. (Makes approximately four pints, and four fine Christmas gifts, if you can bear to part with the fruits (pardon the pun) of all this labor. But, I suggest that you be selfish, keep these for yourself and family, and open a jar on a dreary winter day, to accompany your main course or hot buttery biscuits or—well, you have some ideas of your own, don't you?

'Comfort foods' often have discomforting effect on health

Some people call them 'comfort foods.' To others, they are 'binge foods. Or, they may be those things you eat when you really want to 'pig out.'

"People turn to comfort foods, or mood foods, for all kinds of reasons, ranging from depression to celebration," says Ruth Ann Broome, R.D. of the American Heart Association, Mississippi Affiliate nutrition committee.

"Unfortunately, many of these comfort foods actually have discomforting effects on your health," Broome added.

Consider a typical sampling of mood or binge foods Americans choose. They range from french fries, to chips and dips, to banana splits, to cookies and milk. Mom's chicken soup is in there, when you're sick. And, there's always Southern-style, Italian, Mexican, Chinese—whatever—when you're celebrating.

Some of these foods can be high in fat and cholesterol, two major contributors to the build-up of deposits in the arteries of your body. Deposits inside your arteries can cause blockages leading to heart disease and heart attack.

That's the bad news.

The good news is that with a little modification and substitution, most of the foods we eat can be made heart healthy.

"In other words," according to Broome, "you can have your cake and eat it, too."

Here are a few suggestions on how to bring some of the bad out you eat out of the danger zone and into the comfort zone:

Fried Chicken. Remove the skin from the chicken parts (or whatever piece you like). Roll in low-fat milk or flour and then in cornflake crumbs seasoned with pepper and paprika. Bake in the oven at 400 degrees for 45 minutes. The crumbs will form a heart-healthy, crispy skin.

Hoagie Sandwich. Substitute a yogurt-based dressing and lean low-fat, low-sodium meats and cheeses. Throw on vegetables and wrap with whole wheat bread. A feast even Dagwood would love!

French Fries. Try oven-baked fries. Or, better yet, a quickly prepared microwaved baked potato topped with plain yogurt instead of sour cream.

Many other mouth-watering comfort foods are available on a heart-healthy diet. To find out how you can have good food for any mood, check out the AHA's Food Festival, September 17 at participating supermarkets. Tips and recipes on heart-healthy eating will be available.

Taylor opens campaign offices

Senator Gene Taylor announced that his campaign for Congress will open offices in OUTSTANDING STUDENT—Tina M. Benigno, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Benigno of Kenner, La. and granddaughter of Beulah Benigno of Bay St. Louis and the late A. J. Benigno and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bourgeois of Waveland, was recently named an Outstanding College Student of America. She is a sophomore at the University of Mississippi in Oxford.

Pascagoula and Hattiesburg in early September.

The Hattiesburg headquarters at 117 O'Ferrall Place, next to Shoney's on Highway 49, will open on Saturday, Sept. 3, at 2 p.m.

The Pascagoula office at 2506 Market St. will open on Tuesday, Sept. 6, at noon.

Taylor invited the public to attend the openings. The main headquarters is at 107 Felicity Street in Bay St. Louis, the candidate's home town.

Taylor also announced that Brian Martin, executive director of the Mississippi Democratic Party, has joined his campaign for the U.S. Congress.

Martin, 30, will take leave from the party post to manage the Taylor campaign. He will succeed Peggy Dutton, a Bay St. Louis teacher, who returns to the classroom after serving as campaign manager during the summer. Dutton will continue to assist the campaign's volunteer organization.

Additional parking available for PRC's football opener

The addition of some 300 parking spaces on Pearl River Community College's campus should make it easier for those attending Saturday's home football opener against Itawamba to find a spot for their cars, according to Larry Stanford, PRC's director of public relations.

According to Stanford, those attending the game are encouraged to use the new parking areas in front of, and on the east side of the Marvin R. White Coliseum.

Fans will still be allowed to park on the west side of T.D. Dobie Holden Stadium, however, they will be asked to enter the parking area from the south end, as will be indicated by signs, and exit at the north end following the game.

Lady Bulldogs begin volleyball practice

Mississippi State University's Lady Bulldogs began volleyball practice Aug. 15 in preparation for their season-opening competition, Sept. 9-10, at the Arkansas State Invitational in Jonesboro, Ark.

Other teams participating in the five-team tournament include Oral Roberts University, University of Evansville, North Texas State University and host Arkansas State University.

The 1988 campaign marks Coach Mike Tucker's third at Mississippi State. His task will be to bear the fruit of a rebuilding program that produced a 15-23 record in 1986 and a 12-26 record a year ago.

Tucker voices confidence that his squad will turn the tide in 1988.

"For the first time since I've been here, we've established some kind of continuity. Eight returnees worked out during the spring. With the freshmen coming in, I feel we will field a much more agile and quicker team."

The 1988 Lady Bulldogs will be headlined by upperclassmen Tonja Strube, a senior, and Emily Ginn, a junior. Their talents will be complemented by five sophomores and four freshmen.

Mississippi State will open Southeastern Conference play by hosting Louisiana State on Sept. 29.

ALABAMA RIVERS CLOSED TO SHRIMPERS

Marine Resources Division Director Hugh A. Swingle recently received word from Jim Goodwin, chief legal counsel for the Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources that a 1939 state law which permanently closed all rivers, bayous and creeks to all shrimping applies to all of the Blakely and Apalachee rivers. The bait shrimp law confused the earlier belief that these rivers were open to shrimping south of the Battleground Parkway.

The Apalachee River is now closed north of Interstate 10 and the Blakely River is closed north of the channel into d'Olive Bay.

Diamondhead Boaters Association meets

The Diamondhead Boaters Association's August meeting was held at the community center on Saturday, Aug. 13, with members and guests enjoying a social hour and covered-dish dinner with homemade ice-cream and cake prior to the business and entertainment.

Vice Commodore Mike Doherty introduced new members who were present, John and Madge Dicks, and Allen and Phyllis Lilley, in addition to guests present that evening.

Reports were made by Billie Jean Bargar, chairperson of the Mardi Gras Theme committee, and Blanche Devine, chairperson of the King/Queen Nominating Committee.

Social Chairperson Nine Cotten described the "happy birthday" entertainment program. Every month persons were honored born in that month. Themes of the skits were New Year's Day football Game, Mardi Gras, St. Patrick's Day, April Fools Day, Mother's Day, Love and Marriage, July 4, Beach Party, School Football, Thanksgiving, and Decorating the Christmas Tree.

As usual, the food was superb and the entertainment was creative, well-planned, impressively costumed and delightfully executed. Thanks were extended to the social chairperson and the coordinators of each month, Nina Cotton, Seabelle Simino, Alma Marshall, Mary Lou Freeman, Blanche Devine, Margaret Arnos, Flo Thorp, Marge Larson, E.J. Smith, Ethel Kimmitt, Gladys McCook and Betty McMurry.

Submitted by Feeny Bamber.

Sensory impairment grant funded at USM

A $116,206 federal grant will fund home-based assistance statewide for young children with dual sensory impairments, a University of Southern Mississippi researcher said.

The U.S. Department of Education Office of Special Education Programs grant will fund the third consecutive year of the "Early Identification and Intervention for Infants and Young Children with Dual Sensory Impairments" project, said its director, Kathleen Stremel-Campbell, senior researcher in USM's special education department.

Three health agencies promote 'Smoke-Free Class of 2000'

When Mississippi youngsters enroll in the first grade this year they will also be in the first Smoke-Free Class of 2000 (SFC 2000). This is a joint project of the Mississippi Lung Association, American Heart Association-Mississippi Affiliate and American Cancer Society-Mississippi Division in response to the U.S. Surgeon General's call for a smoke-free society by the year 2000.

"The children who are entering the first grade this September will graduate from high school in the Class of the Year 2000," said Mrs. Richard Boyd, chairperson of SFC 2000 project. "We are asking them to become the ambassadors of a whole new generation, a generation of children who are free of cigarettes. We'd like them to promise not to smoke, and we'd like them to ask their brothers and sisters, their friends, and their teachers and parents not to smoke."

Boyd said, "The educational materials that teachers in Mississippi can use during the 1988-89 school year to introduce children to the idea of being smoke-free will be provided to participating schools by the three health agencies who will also provide appropriate follow-up materials to the children as they progress through middle school, junior and senior high school."

An estimated 43,000 Mississippi children will enter the first grade this month. The three health agencies plan to reach about one-third of the total with this new campaign during the school year."

"We know children care very much about their own health and about the health of their friends and family," said Boyd. "We expect them to become enthusiastic smoke-free ambassadors."

According to the three agencies, the initiation of regular daily smoking is highest among children in the seventh to ninth grades. About 60 percent of adult smokers say they got hooked on cigarettes by age 14.

An estimated 320,000 Americans die prematurely each year of smoking-related causes, including lung cancer, emphysema, and coronary heart disease, making smoking the number one preventable cause of disease and death in America, the three health agencies say.

Pass library to host Jarreau paintings month of September

The first one-man show for Charles L. Jarreau will take place at the Pass Christian Public Library through the month of September, starting on Monday, Sept. 12. He is a chemical engineer from New Orleans, living in the Pass since 1973.

His hobby started in about 1955 as a Sunday painter until the past two years, when he devoted more time to his painting work. The only prior exhibit was in a Natchez show where his single entry, a still life, took second place award. He works only in oil on canvas and has produced many portraits, still lifes, marines, landscapes now privately held in California, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Tennessee and Georgia.

In this show there are recent portraits of family and local friends, plus other recently completed works. Additionally, there are studies of the old masters from Van Eyck to Matisse. Mr. Jarreau is color-blind.

YOUTH OF THE YEAR AWARD—Exchange Club of Hancock County president Kelvin Schultz recently presented Youth of the Year Award to Ya-Sin Shabazz of Bay St. Louis. He was presented with a $500 scholarship from the organization for outstanding accomplishments in academic and athletic achievements. He will attend Yale University this fall on an academic scholarship. BACK TO NATURE

BY LYDIA SCHULTZ

The hummingbirds have been coming in very slowly this year. Hummers are my special birds. They usually come to my feeders in Bay St. Louis around the first part of July. One did not disappoint me, for on July 7 there it was. The flurry of whirring and buzzing is not as great as last year. But one season does not mean a pattern.

Ornithologists will take years of study before they venture on stating the results. So do not jump to conclusions about the slow showing of hummers this year.

Late showing of hummingbirds does not indicate slow season

One point that cannot be neglected with hummingbirds is the large number of feeders hanging about. I once said, and I repeat, that there has not been and probably never will be a study done on the effects of feeding hummingbirds. Do we keep them alive with the feeders, or is it for us to enjoy them? Have we helped increase the number of hummingbirds? Have we lengthened their lives? Have we done any damage to them? The answers to these questions would be guestimates at best.

I know what my feelings are and why I do it. I think I am helping. I also think I enjoy the dickens out of them. So there! The thrill of a hummer never diminishes for me.

This column will come to you monthly from my point of view. While I am not a biologist, ornithologist or PhD, I am a person who cares deeply about the earth we humans inhabit. I care about the air we breathe, the water we drink, the soil where our veggies grow, the trees that glorify our surroundings, and last but not least, the birds that brighten our days.

As I have come in contact with many people on a daily basis regarding birds and wildlife, I have developed many opinions about things. I have also sensed a dramatic change in attitudes which our leaders locally and nationally are going to have to follow if not now, soon. Very soon.

For now, I must be content to do my part. (It seems small at times). That will be to keep you aware of our magnificent environment and our rich wildlife in Hancock County. I have been told that Hancock County is the best as far as birds and places to find birds go in Mississippi.

So I leave you with this thought: Shouldn't we protect our

SCHOOL DAYS AGAIN—First grade teacher Eloise Smith gets to know her class at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlington. Superintendent Terrell Randolph said, "With dramatic improvements being made in the functional literary test, within instructional management plan well under way, the staff of Hancock County School District is confidently making all efforts to create and maintain a school system that community and civic leaders can be proud of." Plans include adding $300,000 worth of additional hardware and software to its $1 million computer system. Juniors and seniors this year are being offered the option of electing a humanities survey course, while band and music programs are being offered at Charles B. Murphy and Gulfview Elementary. Drifters, Vance, Class Distinction headline Labor Day weekend fest

Flagship Festival '88 will transform Pascagoula River Park into a virtual playground for the entire family during the three-day labor Day weekend—and the highlight of the festival is its nonstop free entertainment.

Each day of the festival—set for Sept. 3, 4 and 5—a nationally-known musical artist or group will present an afternoon and evening performance on the park's large outdoor stage.

The dynamic 'Drifters' will head this year's lineup of outstanding talent, according to Tom Meek, entertainment chairman for Flagship Festival '88. A Salute To Industry.

Artists appearing on the main stage, in addition to the Original Drifters, will include Vince Vance and the Valiants, Judy Nulta and Pat Taylor, Class Distinction of Bay St. Louis, Southern Bred, Dorothy Moore, The Avara Brothers, The U.S. Navy Steel Drum Band, and Synical.

Funland Stage will also feature entertainment, as local groups will be performing there each afternoon. Funland Stage acts will be geared to a youthful audience.

"We would like to encourage everyone to take part in this annual weekend extravaganza," Meek said. "The entertainment will be top quality, and the Flagship Festival is maintaining its commitment to being a free festival with no entrance fee," he added.

The following is a partial list of Flagship Festival '88 performers and some additional information regarding them:

The Drifters: The Original Drifters will recreate their 50's magic at Flagship Festival '88. The five-member group is one of the few original acts from the 50s which is still actively performing. Famous for their choreography as well as their vocal.

als and exceptional harmonies, the Original Drifters will be performing Saturday, Sept. 3, the opening day of Flagship Festival '88. Their free performances are scheduled at 4 p.m. and 9 p.m. at the Main Stage, Pascagoula River Park.

Vince Vance And The Valiants: This band is an artistic community of the finest calibre musicians, singers, dancers, actors and stage performers who have come together for one purpose—entertainment. When thinking of excitement, comedy and fun, the Valiants immediately come to mind. They will make you laugh. And they might even bring a tear to your eye, but you will not soon forget seeing their performance.

The Valiants originally came together in September, 1971, to recognize and protect American music history and to pay tribute to the golden era of rock and roll. Vince Vance and the Valiants will perform at 4 p.m. and 9 p.m. at Flagship Festival '88.

Funland Stage will also feature entertainment, as local groups will be performing there each afternoon. Funland Stage acts will be geared to a youthful audience.

Dorothy Moore: Jackson native Dorothy Moore is well-known as an entertainer-recording artist. At Flagship Festival '88, she will be performing the rhythm and blues/pop music which has brought her nationwide attention. Ms. Moore began singing in church at the age of five, then began performing in local talent shows.

During her college days, in the late 1960's at Jackson State University, she became part of the singing group The Poppies which enjoyed a small hit, 'Lullaby of Love,' on the Epic label. Named in 1977 as Natra's Best Female Vocalist and Record World's Top Female Vocalist and winner of four Grammies, Dorothy Moore will again perform at Jackson County's Flagship Festival. She is scheduled to perform Sunday, Sept. 4 at 3 p.m. and again at 9 p.m. at the Main Stage.

Class Distinction: This trio of housewives is remarkable in its ability to sound more like the Andrew Sisters than the original, but also to perform original material. Class Distinction is based in Bay St. Louis, and recently have been performing around the country. Their sound is infectious, and their performance is exhilarating. Listeners instinctively find themselves keeping a beat to the music. Class Distinction presents a mix of old and new tunes in all kinds of rhythms. Audiences invariably ask for an encore when the performance is over. They will perform on Sunday, Sept. 4 at 7 p.m.

United States Navy Steel Band: The steel drums originated on the island of Trinidad. It was in 1945, during the Allied victory in Europe that the islanders began to discard the bamboo strips on which they had been making their music and turned to striking pots, pans, paint cans and steel drums to produce the clatter of the steel band. Modern steel drums are carefully tuned reflections of those early pots and pans. The U.S. Navy Steel Drum Band was developed in San Juan, Puerto Rico when the late Admiral Dan Galloway, enchanted with the sound of steel that he heard there, commanded his conventional Navy band to learn to play the drums.

As the band's skill developed and their repertoire grew, their popularity increased, creating a demand for their skills both in the islands and in the United States. Today, the Navy Steel Band is based in New Orleans, having relocated in 1978. The members are all active Navy musicians who travel thousands of miles yearly throughout the world. Steel band performances are scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 3, 4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 4, and 3 p.m. Monday, Sept. 5.

'Discovery MSU' to be hosted on campus Sept. 3

Several thousand high school and junior college students from throughout the region will be among the throng at Mississippi State University Sept. 3 for annual fall semester 'Discovery: MSU' activities.

This year's event is held in conjunction with the 6 p.m. campus football game at Scott Field between MSU and Louisiana Tech University.

'Discovery' is designed to acquaint future students with the university's academic programs and provide information on subjects ranging from admission requirements to financial aid to student organizations. Last year's event attracted nearly 3,500.

Some 200 colorful displays, demonstrations and exhibits will be featured on the drill field from 1-4 p.m. Student registration will be held under the 'Big Top' tent.

In addition to information displays, the informal program will include entertainment by the MSU Stage Bands, Madrigal Singers and others. Also, a barbecue dinner will be sold from 12:30-2:30 p.m.

Special $5 student tickets for the football game will be available as long as the supply lasts.

Additional information on 'Discovery: MSU' may be obtained by calling the Office of College and School Relations at 1-325-3076.

Q. Which is older, the Mississippi Army National Guard or the state guard?

A. The Guard. Territorial Governor Winthrop Sargent issued an order on September 8, 1798 calling for the militia to be organized. Mississippi gained statehood in 1817, 19 years later, becoming the 20th state in the union.

'Smart Kids, Safe Kids' promotes educational motivation, physical safety

Members of the Mississippi American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, have launched a new campaign for students this school year called 'Smart Kids, Safe Kids.'

"This project emphasizes the dedication of our members to improving both educational attainments and the physical safety of the students in our school districts," said Maryann Graczyk, union president.

The federation, which represents teachers, paraprofessionals, and support personnel throughout the state, has set four priorities in the 'Smart Kids, Safe Kids' campaign. Graczyk said.

First, to encourage parents to work with their children at home to improve learning skills.

"Years of research have demonstrated that the home environment is a crucial indicator of a child's performance in school," stated Graczyk. "When parents devote time to reinforcing their children's creative and critical thinking, our teachers see the results in the classroom." To assist parents, MAFT is distributing the AFT's highly successful pamphlet, Home Team.

Home Team encourages parents to work with their children at home to improve their learning skills in the '3 R's—Read and Research, Reinforce and Reward, and Review and Reaply. The pamphlet provides parents with methods and activities that will reinforce what their children are learning at school.

Second, to encourage students to take responsibility for some of their own learning by calling a toll-free number for daily learning tips' ideas. Experiences AFT members from around the country, serving on a special Teacher Advisory Panel, provide the learning tips.

"Pre-recorded messages offer educational activities that grade school children can do at home," said Graczyk. She stated that many of the daily suggestions are tied to specific holidays, events and observances; all motivate children to broaden their understanding and knowledge of history, current events and cultural values; science, math and nature; literature and the arts; and/or skills in logic and creative thinking.

"We piloted this program in several school districts last spring and received very favorable response," said Graczyk, "so we're pleased to include it in this campaign."

Third, to encourage parents to help their children learn to love reading, through participation in the 'Super Reader' program. The Your Child Can Be a Super Reader primer, by Len Kusnetz, offers parents tips on everything from expanding their children's vocabulary and comprehension skills to appropriate reading lists for different age groups. The book is targeted to children in grades 3-9 and provides step-by-step instructions that help parents develop their children's confidence, speed and reading ease.

"There is no more important component of a child's education than the ability to read and comprehend," stated Graczyk. "The 'Super Reader' primer tackles the biggest stumbling block to improve those skills—convincing children that it's fun to read."

Fourth, to improve the safety of school buses. According to Graczyk, MAFT teachers and school employees are supporting tighter safety equipment standards for district buses, more training in both safety procedures and student discipline for bus drivers, and a police crackdown on motorists who refuse to stop for loading and unloading school buses.

"The Federation's goal for this school year is 'Smart Kids, Safe Kids,' and there's no more important enterprise for keeping children safe than ensuring the safety of their transportation," said Graczyk.

Parents and teachers can obtain the Home Team pamphlet, the 'Learning Line' poster, and a brochure on school bus safety free of charge by contacting an AFT member in their school district or by sending a long, stamped (50 cents), self-addressed envelope to MAFT/Smart Kids, Safe Kids, P.O. Box 6427, Biloxi, MS 39532.

Parents and others who want the book, Your Child Can Be A Super Reader, should include a check for $1.95 to cover additional cost for postage and handling.

AVAILABLE ONLY AT STORES WITH FISHERMAN'S WHARF FRESH SEAFOOD DEPARTMENT

If squash had wings, if melons could fly, you couldn't get them faster.

Our produce is so fresh you'd think it was flown in by Superman. That's because at WINN-DIXIE, we're dedicated to bringing you the pick of the crop from wherever the best is grown. Whether it's fresh fruit from England or fresh kiwi fruit from New Zealand, we'll get it to you faster than a speeding bullet. No salad or supper will suffer the fate of limp lettuce, said celery will be crisp and juicy. And when it comes to the distance, at WINN-DIXIE we promise to bring you the very freshness from the orchards, fields and farms so you can help your chef. Even if beans sprouted wings, you couldn't get them faster than if you bought them from WINN-DIXIE.

Nature makes the produce, WINN-DIXIE makes the difference.
